

TASTING PACK WINE #80

TASTING NOTES BY: MASTER SOMMELIER CHRISTOPHER BATES

See through, but surprisingly purple with no browning. The nose is immediately ripe cherry driven, with notes of candied tart fruits. The herbal, green crushed leaf, licorice/cola like spice is strong, and there is a SLIGHT mineral Note. The wine shows spice and vanilla notes.

TASTING NOTES BY: ADVANCED SOMMELIER JOSHUA CARLSEN

Medium concentration of ruby-red with medium viscosity. Driven by red fruit aromas and flavors of cherries, raspberries, and red plum skin. These are backed up by dried herbs, tea, and red flowers along with a subtle earthiness. This wine shows fine grained tannins and juicy acidity. There is spice and vanilla here as well indicating oak.

Country: Argentina

Regions: Patagonia

Vintage: 2019

Alcohol: 12%

Elevage: Aged 11 months with 54% aged in used French oak and 46% aged in concrete Tanks

Winemaking: Winemaker Piero Incisa della Rocchetta is from the aristocratic winemaking family of Tenuta San Guido who is known for making the super Tuscan Sassicaia

NOTES :

While the fruit and palate roundness scream pinot, the purple color is unique to high UV radiation areas (like Patagonia and Otago). It's rare to see purple like this in pinot unless another grape like Syrah has been blended in, but, UV radiation will cause purple colors to appear.
